Health and Safety Employee Induction

HAWAIIKI

The highest level of safety behaviour that we can expect our team members to display is the lowest level of safety behaviour that our managers, team leaders and safety team members exhibit or demand.

With Safety, and other key areas of the business, Leadership and Personal responsibility is the key

Think Safety

The safety education process never stops. It is a constant in everything we do.

Challenge Yourself – Is Safety Really In Your Heart?

Or are you faking it!!

Safety Non–Negotiables

- Procedures – in place, reviewed regularly, and followed
- All Employees and Contractors Inducted – every 12 months
- Written JSA's on all Key Tasks → SWMS's for High/Medium risks
- Regular Site Audits – internal and external
- Safety Leadership – managers and supervisors
- Pre–shift 'Safety Minute' – before every shift
- Regular Workplace Inspections – safe job observations
- Monthly Team Safety Meetings – agenda, defined topic, actions, minutes
- Site Visits to Partner Organisations – at least once per year

Safety Non-Negotiables

- Regular Training – task focused at all levels
- Near Miss Reporting – promote this as a key strategy
- Thorough Investigation of Incidents is Essential
- All Safety Actions Must be Closed Out Promptly
- Emergency Exercises – both live and desktop
- Reward Good Individual and Team Safety Performance
- Regular Audits of Contractors

Safety Comes First – We believe this to be true!

Our Beliefs

- All injuries are preventable
- Employee Involvement is expected
- Managers are accountable for safety results
- Safety off the job reflects in safety on the job
- Prevention of injuries/caring for injured workers is good business
- People are the critical element in any safety program
- All safety risks can be eliminated or controlled

Do You agree?

Near Miss Reporting is Crucial

A Near Miss is an Event that had the POTENTIAL to Injure a Person or cause Plant Damage but fortunately didn't.

“A Free Lesson” to prevent reoccurrence

Keep your eyes open

Don't ignore things that happen

Fill in a report – it Could Save a Life

Encourage others to do the same.

I WILL MAKE the DIFFERENCE

It is All About Personal Commitment

I Will

Get passionate about Safety

Not Turn A Blind Eye to Shortcuts

Report Near Misses

Audit, audit, audit. Really LOOK!

Investigate and fix what needs improving

Not Put off Safety Until Tomorrow

Correct my fellow worker's Poor Safety Habits

Not Compromise or Become Complacent

Not put myself in the position where
I think "If only I had" after an incident

Think Safety

Any Questions?
